Doctor of Theology – ThD

COMMON ELEMENTS IN HIGHER RESEARCH AWARDS

MTh(Hons), MA(Hons), ThD, DMin and PhD

All MTh(Hons), MA(Hons), ThD and PhD candidates proceed to the award by thesis alone. For DMin candidates 40% of the award is by coursework and 60% by thesis.

Oversight

Oversight for the research degree programs of the Sydney College of Divinity falls to the Research Committee. The management of the programs is the responsibility of the Director (Research), who is also a member of the Research Committee. The Research Committee is a committee of the Academic Board and makes recommendations to it.

In terms of the research awards, the Research Committee has responsibility for such things as the admission of candidates, the appointment of supervisors and associate supervisors, the progress of candidates through the program, the provision of research seminars and workshops, the examination of completed theses, the implementation of any recommendations from the examiners, and the recommendation to the College that a candidate proceed to graduation.

Enrolment

Candidates enrol through the Office of the Dean following an interview with the Director of Research. The Director forwards the application for enrolment to the Research Committee which gives acceptance into the program.

The candidature is provisional until the acceptance of the thesis proposal by the Research Committee.

Thesis proposal

Not later than one semester for a full-time candidate and two semesters for a part-time candidate, a formal thesis proposal will be submitted to the Research Committee. This proposal will form the basis of the assessment, mentioned below.

Research supervision

All candidates have two supervisors, a principal supervisor and an associate supervisor. These are formally appointed by the Research Committee. Normally, the principal supervisor will be a staff member of a Member Institution of the Sydney College of Divinity. Often candidates who have studied in the Sydney College of Divinity may already have 'chosen' a supervisor. Other candidates may have a topic in mind but no supervisor. In both cases, the Director of Research can offer advice. Candidates usually make an approach to the hoped-for supervisor and request the committee to appoint that person.

The Code of Supervisory Practice informs the supervisory relationships. All candidates and all supervisors are provided with a copy of the Code which is appended to this chapter.

Reviewed: Dec 2011

Each semester the supervisors will report to the Research Committee. They may do this jointly or by separate report on the form provided.

Compulsory Research Degree Workshops

These workshops are compulsory for all new thesis writers. Held annually they are offered in intensive mode, usually early in first semester. Presented by several lecturers, they are designed to help candidates with practical matters affecting the writing of a thesis. Some of the topics dealt with are:

- examiners' expectations
- finding a thesis topic
- writing an abstract
- method in theology
- bibliographical aids
- library searches
- writing a thesis proposal

Enrolment is through the Office of the Dean.

Compulsory Research Seminars

There are several Research Seminars held throughout the year. Ongoing enrolment in the award is subject to completing these attendance requirements and presenting a paper at one or more depending on the program.

Research Ethics

Any research involving human subjects must have the approval of the Sydney College of Divinity Ethics Review Committee.

All thesis proposals involving the gathering of personal information from people by surveys, interviews or case studies etc must first be referred to the Research Committee for approval using the appropriate forms and will be dealt with according to the procedures and policies of the Ethics Review Committee.

Whether or not you need to obtain a specific ethics clearance, you must still conduct ethical research. Some of the problem areas for ethical research include:

- (a) PLAGIARISM: Plagiarism is the representation of another's works or ideas as one's own; it includes the unacknowledged word for word use or paraphrasing of another person's work, and the inappropriate unacknowledged use of another person's ideas.
- (b) FRAUD: Academic fraud is the falsification and fabrication of, or dishonesty in reporting research results.
- (c) MISREPRESENTATION: Misrepresentation is the giving of false or misleading information in academic matters. It includes falsely claiming credit for past study; falsely stating that thesis material has not been used in another thesis.

Reviewed: Dec 2011

- (d) UNETHICAL BEHAVIOUR: Unethical behaviour is behaviour that breaches accepted ethical standards. It includes failing to observe the terms of an ethical approval to conduct research; misuse of confidential information obtained in field education.

Failure to conduct ethical research may result in the candidate being charged with academic misconduct. Candidates should not assume that such misconduct will not be detected. The Academic Misconduct Regulations can be found on the SCD website.

Libraries

Each research degree candidate will be asked to nominate as a home library, one of the Sydney College of Divinity libraries. This enables the supervisor and candidate to build up research resources in the topic area of the candidate using a Research Degree Library Resources Grant to the library from the Sydney College of Divinity. The grant is made to the nominated library each semester the candidate is enrolled. As well, the nomination of a home library allows for a reciprocal arrangement between the candidate and Macquarie University.

The Research Degree Program: A User's Guide

This informal guide for candidates for the research degree programs provides an array of information and advice for thesis writers. It should be read in conjunction with the current Handbook and the regulations for each program.

Presenting the Thesis for Examination

Two copies for a MTh(Hons) and MA(Hons) thesis, and three copies for either a ThD, a DMin or PhD thesis must be submitted for examination. These should be bound in spiral form. Medium bond paper is to be used.

The supervisor is required to sign a Certification of Thesis.

Examination Process

The thesis will be formally received by the Research Committee at its first meeting following receipt of the thesis. The Committee decides who will be invited to examine the thesis: in this matter it would be unusual for the Committee to depart completely from the supervisor's suggestions.

Once the examiners have agreed to examine the thesis, they are expected to return their report within three months of having received the thesis. A longer time may be negotiated if the examiner has other commitments or if the examining period falls in the Christmas vacation.

Three examiners (at least two of whom are external to the Sydney College of Divinity) are appointed for a ThD, DMin and PhD thesis, and two examiners (both of whom are normally external to the Sydney College of Divinity) are appointed for a MTh(Hons) and

MA(Hons) thesis. Their reports are received by the Research Committee. Four categories of response are provided:

1. the award be granted
2. the thesis be revised subject to the satisfaction of the Research Committee
3. a significantly revised thesis be re-submitted for examination
4. the award not be granted.

In the case of (2) and (3), the reports are sent initially to the supervisor who is invited to respond to the Research Committee. The Committee then determines what instructions are to be given to the candidate and the date of the re-submission in the case of (3). The Director of Research then advises the candidate and the supervisor accordingly.

If the reports recommend that the thesis be accepted, the Research Committee recommends accordingly to the Academic Board and, if all other work has been completed, candidates are invited to graduate.

The candidate is required to lodge 2 hard-bound copies of the thesis and the electronic copy with the Director of Research.

Criteria for a thesis

The Thesis should be assessed, amongst other things, by the following:

- The clarity with which the research question/problem is stated and the scope of the study defined.
- The appropriateness of the theoretical or conceptual framework to the investigation.
- The appropriateness of the methodology in relation to the research question/problem.
- The precision and consistency with which key terminology is used.
- The depth of the critical assessment of the relevant literature.
- The capacity to demonstrate a link between the literature review and the research question/problem.
- The degree of skill in constructing arguments and sustaining a position throughout the thesis.
- The level of competency in considering possible objections to the position advanced in the thesis.
- The high degree of proficiency in using rigorous argument.
- The careful and accurate presentation of the scholarly apparatus.
- The originality and the level of contribution made to the understanding of the subject.
- The suitability of a substantial amount of the material for publication.
- A clear statement of the conclusions reached.
- The conclusions are justified by the arguments presented.
- An ability to relate the conclusions of the study to the wider discipline.

Guidelines for the Preparation of the Thesis

- All copies of the thesis shall be in good quality typescript on one side of the paper only. In the main body of the thesis double-spacing of typescript is preferred, but one-and-a-half-spacing is acceptable. Single-spacing may be used only for appendices and footnotes. The paper shall be good quality, medium weight white stock, sufficiently opaque for normal reading.
- Gender inclusive language is to be used.
- The size of the paper shall be A4 (297mm x 210mm) except for illustrative material such as drawings, maps and printouts, on which no restriction is placed.
- The margins on each sheet shall be not less than 40mm on the left-hand side, 20mm on the right-hand side, 30mm at the top and 20mm at the bottom.
- The recommended structural sequence of a thesis is as follows:
 - Title Page
 - Declaration of Originality
 - Acknowledgements (if any)
 - Preface (if any)
 - Table of Contents
 - List of illustrations and tables (if any)
 - Abstract
 - Introduction (if separate from Chapter 1)
 - Chapters in sequence
 - Appendix or appendices (if any)
 - Bibliography.
- The title page shall contain the thesis title, author's name, degree and year of submission.
- The Declaration of Originality shall take the following form:

This thesis is based upon original work by the author and a study of the relevant published works as indicated and acknowledged in the text.

Signed:.....

Date.....
- The table of contents should be fairly comprehensive in a thesis, since an index is not usually included.
- Beginning with the first page of Chapter 1, pages should be numbered consecutively using Arabic numerals. Preceding pages, except the title page, should normally be given lower case Roman numerals.
- Each copy of the thesis shall have an abstract of not more than 500 - 700 words bound in. The abstract should indicate the problem investigated, the procedure followed, the general results obtained, and the major conclusions reached. It should not contain any illustrative material or tables.

Reviewed: Dec 2011

- Appendices contain supplementary material that the author considers necessary to the interpretation of the text itself. Long tables, raw or relatively unprocessed data, detailed reports or computer printouts are generally more appropriately included in an appendix.
- Materials such as illustrations, charts and tables must not be submitted on the back of typed sheets. Except with the approval of the supervisor, these should be bound facing the text to which they refer, or if necessary, as right-hand pages, immediately after the first reference to them. The caption should be placed at the bottom of the page.
- Materials such as diagrams, maps, and tables which exceed A4 size should be either:
 - (i) folded so as to read as a right-hand page when opened; or
 - (ii) clearly referred to in the text, numbered and folded for insertion in a pocket in the back inside cover of the thesis binding.
- Footnotes at the bottom of each page are preferred, but endnotes will be permitted.

Bibliography and Referencing

No single method of referring is prescribed, but it is essential that candidates use one or other of the generally recognised systems of referencing. Those of the Journal of Theological Studies, or the Journal of Biblical Literature are recommended. A useful reference for you to consult is: L McIntosh (1994) A Style Manual for the Presentation of Papers and Theses in Religion and Theology, available from: Centre for Information Studies, Locked Bag 660, WAGGA WAGGA NSW 2678. Presentation and Binding of Thesis Following Examination

When the thesis has been examined and accepted, two copies bound in the manner described below shall be sent to the Office of the Director of Research, along with one copy in electronic form.

Each copy of the final version of the thesis shall be bound in boards, covered with buckram or similar, and embossed on the spine as follows:

- (a) At the bottom and across, the words
“Sydney College of Divinity”
- (b) 90mm from the bottom and across, the degree and year of submission, for example:
MTh(Hons)
2008
- (c) Evenly spaced between the statement in (b) and the top of the spine, the initials and surname of the author. No other lettering or decoration shall appear on the spine.
- (d) Where the spine of the thesis is too thin to support lettering across, the wording shall be printed along the spine reading from top to bottom in all cases.

Grievances

The Sydney College of Divinity has in place a set of grievance procedures which cover academic and non-academic aspects of candidature in the research programs of the College. The grievance procedures can be accessed on the college website www.scd.edu.au.

CODE OF SUPERVISORY PRACTICE

The research enterprise is one which involves the candidate, the supervisor and the Sydney College of Divinity. Each of the three has responsibilities and obligations to ensure that the enterprise is fruitful.

The Sydney College of Divinity, through its Research Committee:

1. Determines the eligibility of the candidate to undertake research at MTh(Hons) or doctoral level.
2. Determines that the research project is appropriate for the degree.
3. Ensures that proper supervision can be provided and maintained throughout the research period.
4. Appoints supervisors expert in the areas of research and willing to undertake the obligations of supervision.
5. Establishes and monitors mechanisms whereby conflict between the supervisor and the student may be resolved.
6. Establishes procedures for all stages of the examination process.
7. Establishes procedures whereby staff inexperienced in supervision are assisted with supervision.
8. Establishes minimum reporting procedures.
9. Establishes examination criteria for theses.

POLICY DETERMINATION

In the light of these responsibilities the following Code of Practice governing supervision of research for higher degrees is adopted.

The Supervisor

The supervisors are appointed by the Research Committee after consultation with the candidate.

The Sydney College of Divinity expects that supervisors will:

- Assist the student to identify a thesis topic suitable in scope and intellectual challenge for the particular degree.
- Advise the student on appropriate source material and its availability.
- Monitor the progress of the work by scheduling regular meetings with the student. An average of one per month is suggested. The frequency will probably vary according to stage of development of the thesis.
- Record the outcomes or decisions taken at each meeting with the student.
- Provide critical comment on drafts of sections of the work.
- Read and critically comment on the final draft of the thesis.

Reviewed: Dec 2011

- Certify that the thesis meets the requirements of the SCD and is ready to be presented for examination.
- Suggest the names of three possible examiners.
- Encourage the student to become part of the wider academic community by participating in seminars and conferences.
- Advise the successful candidate on possible avenues of publication.
- Provide ongoing assistance to students who have been required to re-write and/or re-submit their theses. (see Section on Rewriting below)
- Report on the student's progress to the Research Committee once a year, on the forms provided, and at other times should the supervisors deem it necessary.
- Alert the Research Committee, through the Dean, to problems encountered in the supervisory relationship.
- Inform the student and the Research Committee of any extended leave so that arrangements may be made for the associate supervisor to take over the supervision.
- Ensure effective communication with the associate supervisor.

The Student

The student will

- Inform themselves of the regulations governing the submission and examination of theses.
- Apply to the Research Committee for the appointment of a supervisor. In most cases, candidates will have previously approached one or more potential supervisors to discuss the proposed area of research.
- Arrange with their supervisors for regular meetings at mutually convenient times, generally once a month.
- At the end of each meeting, students should have a clear idea of what work is to be done before the next scheduled meeting. Difficulties encountered in carrying out the work should be communicated to the supervisor before the date of the scheduled meeting.
- Provide drafts of sections of work at agreed intervals.
- Alert the Research Committee, through the Dean, to serious problems encountered in the supervisory relationship.

Supervision of Students Living Outside Metropolitan Areas

In order to make advanced theological education available to those who wish to benefit from it, the SCD permits some candidates living away from Sydney to pursue higher degrees by research. In order to carry out its responsibility to ensure adequate supervision the SCD requires of such students that they:

1. Arrange for a face to face meeting with their supervisor twice per semester;
2. Communicate with the supervisor by phone or in writing at least once a month, irrespective of the progress which has been made in the month which has elapsed.

In addition, students should be made aware that, in some cases, the Research Committee may require them to devote some extended period to the writing of the thesis under the direction of the supervisor and close to the supervisor's workplace. The costs associated with such a period will be met by the student.

Reviewed: Dec 2011

Difficulties in Supervision.

From time to time, students and supervisors may experience difficulties in the supervisory relationship. Disappointment at adverse comments on a draft, increased workload or personal circumstances may cause discouragement or disenchantment with the research task. In many cases, these setbacks are temporary, resolve themselves or may be overcome by the student and supervisor re-negotiating the thesis timetable, keeping in mind the completion date.

In some cases, difficulties arise which are of a more intractable nature. In these cases, candidates may avail themselves of the informal and formal grievance procedures which are in place.

Examination of Thesis: the Supervisor's Role

When the Research Committee invites the candidate to carry out further work on the thesis, the Dean will forward the examiners' reports to the supervisors, who will be invited to write a response which will include a recommendation on how long the candidate might need to complete the re-write.

The role of the supervisor then will be to assist the candidate to appreciate the shortcomings in the thesis and to implement the recommendations made by the examiners in the time allowed.

Difficulties of Students from a Non-English Speaking Background

Although the presentation of the thesis may be affected by difficulties in English expression, candidates cannot expect the supervisor to write the thesis. Common sense will dictate the difference between proofreading, advice on more felicitous expression and writing the thesis in correct English.

Students experiencing such difficulties could be recommended to seek the assistance of persons competent in English. Any arrangements which may ensue are completely independent of the Sydney College of Divinity.
